I designed a website for my dad. I choose some good colours and designs, and made the website look really cool.

My parents asked me to go shopping. First, I made a list of things to buy. I took three bags. In one bag I put cleaning things, in another fruit and vegetables, in the third packets and tins.

My friend invited me to his house for dinner. I didn't eat much. The chicken was too dry, the potatoes were a bit dark and the carrots weren't cooked enough.

I had an exam, but I didn't get too nervous. I closed my eyes and took deep breaths before it started.

My parents were having a conversation about the future. I wanted to know more, so I asked them about it.

I arranged to meet my friends at 7 p.m. It takes thirty minutes to get to the town centre by bus, so I took the 6.20 bus I didn't want to be late.

I gave a speech to the school. I knew I would be all right. I'm always fine.

My aunt in America sent me a big packet of sweets. I took them to school and gave some to everyone in the class, and to my teacher, of course.
