An email from Central Park

Hi, Lewis!

Greetings from New York City! I'm writing to you from Central Park. It's a cool park on Fifth Avenue. I'm sending you a picture of it. I hope you can open it.

It's lunchtime right now, so the park is full of people. Some people are having lunch, and others are riding bikes or running. A man near us is doing yoga, and some people are sunbathing.

Mom and I are sitting near the Lake, one of the biggest lakes in the park, and we're eating bagels—a type of sandwich. I'm watching the boats on the lake and the people in them. Some of the people aren't rowing the boats very well and the boats are going in circles!

Dad isn't here right now. He's visiting an art museum. It's near the park. Dad wants to visit every museum in New York City, but there are over a hundred ...

Are you having a good vacation? I hope you aren't studying! See you at school, Tadeu
