

be mine

Name: _____ Class: _____ No: _____

Valentine's Day

"I see the [redacted] card." Mom said. The Carter family was at the store. They were [redacted] for cards. Everything was [redacted] or [redacted]. Hearts were everywhere. Harry groaned. "Valentine's day is so [redacted]!" "Oh! Come on, Harry." Emmy giggled. "Don't you have a valentine?" "No!" Harry made a face. "Gross!" Most cards came with [redacted] or [redacted]. Oliver found some with gel pens. Mom shook her head. "Those are too [redacted]!" "Did you find any card, Harry?" Dad asked. "No!" Harry said. "All these card has goofy [redacted]!" Emmy picked out one big card. "Who's that for?" Oliver asked. Emmy blushed. "I'm not telling you." Harry found card with [redacted]. "Even these have dumb hearts but I guess they're okay." Finally, It was [redacted] "Valentine's Day is so dumb." Harry grumbled. Mom smiled. "Enjoy your class [redacted]." She said. Later, Harry came home, he had a bag of valentine from his [redacted]. "How was the party?" Mom asked. "Great!" Harry said. "[redacted]?" Mom said. "I thought you didn't like Valentine's Day." Then she saw a big card in Harry's hand. Harry [redacted] hid it behind him. He grinned. "I think I like Valentine's Day after all."

