

Plurals

Countable nouns usually have different singular and plural forms, e.g. car, cars.

With uncountable nouns, there is only one form of the word, e.g. rice.

Plurals can be form adding -s or -es, depending on the word. These are the rules to make plurals:

- a. We usually add -s:

one book → some books

- b. When the nouns ends in -sh, -ch, -ss, -s or -x, we add -es:

dish → dishes

glass → glasses

_____ box → boxes

- c. When the noun ends in -o after a consonant, we also add -es:

_____

- d. When the noun ends in -y after a vowel, we add -s:

_____

- e. When to noun ends in -y after a consonant, we change y to l and add -es:

_____

- f. Some nouns have irregular plurals, for example:

_____ child → children

_____ foot → feet

2. Add the following examples to the rule that they correspond:

woman → women

toy → toys

bus → buses

fish → fish

tomato → tomatoes

story → stories
