

Let me introduce you to Andrea and Alex. They are ten years old and study at the same school. They both like their school and feel happy there. Alex likes art and language and he is in the school's literary club. Andrea loves music and science, and she's really concerned about nature and the environment.