Part 2: Read the passage and circle the letter A, B, C or D to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions . (2pts- 0.2/each)

In the past people suffered (26) ..... a disease called scurvy. Their gums bled, their skin became rough, their wounds did not (27) ..... and their muscles wasted away. The (28) ..... of these symptoms was a lack of vitamin C; people ate preserved meats and foods and could not get fresh vegetables and fruits.

The best (29) ..... of vitamin C are oranges, lemons, grapefruit, cantaloupes, strawberries, and fresh vegetables. These fruits must be fresh because vitamin C is destroyed by heat, storage, or exposure (30) ..... air.

Although today more people (31) ..... vitamin C pills than any other supplement, some people still have scurvy, (32)..... some of the elderly, alcoholics, and the chronically ill. Research shows that vitamin C reduces the (33) ..... of colds and can help prevent cancer. There is also evidence that vitamin C prevents heart disease, (34) ..... wound healing, helps prevent gum disease, and helps protect us from pollutants such as cigarette smoke. Some recent research also shows that vitamin C has a positive effect on some mental (35) ..... and increases life span.

Part 3(1pt/ 0.2/each): Read the article. Choose the most suitable heading from A-H for each part (36-40) of the article . There are two extra headings that you do not need. There is an example at the beginning (0)

- A. Research holds the key to success*
- B. New and improved techniques*
- C. A new kind of athlete*
- D. New equipment has made a difference*
- E. Athletes are what they eat*
- F. Personalized programs will help*
- G. The influence of drugs*
- H. Is there a limit to record-breaking?*

[0:   H  ]

A world record is every athlete's dream, but the hard-won records of a few years ago are mostly just today's qualifying times. Roger Bannister's famous four-minute mile of 1956 has been beaten by nearly 15 seconds, while almost an hour and twenty minutes has been taken off the women's marathon since 1953. 'Faster, higher, stronger' is the Olympic motto, and today's competitors continue to push back the boundaries of what the body can achieve. But one wonders if this can continue.

[36: _____ ]

The last forty years have seen many important technological advances. For example, since the introduction of strong, flexible fiberglass poles, over a meter has been added to the pole vault record. There have also been important developments in the design the running shoe. And while a shoe won't actually make someone run faster, modern shoes do mean many more miles of comfortable, injury-free training.

[37: _____ ]

Pushing back the limits now depends more on science, technology and medicine than anything else. Athletic technique, training programs and diets are all being studied to find ways of taking a few more seconds off or adding a few more cm to that elusive world record. It seems that natural ability and hard work are no longer enough.

[38: _____ ]

The search to find more efficient ways of moving goes on. Analysis of an athlete's style is particularly useful for events like jumping and throwing. Studies show that long jumpers need to concentrate not on the speed of approach, as once thought, but on the angle their bodies make with the ground as they take off. However, the rules governing each sport limit advances achieved by new styles. For instance only one-footed takeoffs are allowed in the high jump.

[39: _____ ]

In the future, it should be possible to develop a more individual approach to training programs. Athletes will keep detailed diaries and collect data to help predict the point when training becomes overtraining, the cause of many injuries. If athletes fee all the information into a database, it may then be possible to predict patterns and to advise them individually when they should cut down.

[40: _____ ]

Combining the right diet with a training program is vital. Athletes are continually searching for that special 'go-faster' ingredient, but apparently it's still a battle to get them to drink sufficient liquid and to follow a balanced healthy diet throughout all phases of training, competition and recovery. Diet in the period after an event is particularly important and often neglected. An athlete who doesn't replace all the liquid lost immediately after a hard run won't be able to repeat the performance at the same level 24 hours later.
