

“When in Rome, do as the Romans do”

Listen to the audio and complete it by writing the missing words.

Kenji: So, Salma, is this your _____ trip to the United States?

Salma: Yes, it is.

Kenji: And what's your _____ so far?

Salma: Well, the people are really _____, and the city is _____. But the food; well, it's not so good.

Kenji: Oh, yeah, that's what I thought too when I first got here. But I'm _____ American food now. I actually love hot dogs and French fries.

Yolanda: So, last night I took Salma to a Mexican restaurant. I wanted her to try something _____.

Kenji: Did you like it?

Salma: Yeah, the food was pretty good, but it was too _____. I couldn't finish it all.

Yolanda: Salma was amazed when I took the _____ home in a doggie bag.

Kenji: Yeah, that's funny, isn't it? They call it a doggie bag but it's for people. Anyway, what else _____ you?

Salma: That the restaurant was so cold! We don't use air _____ so much in my country. Oh, and the water had ice in it, too. I had to put on my sweater, I was so cold!

Salma: Excuse me. Hello? Oh, hi, Eduardo.

Waitress: Excuse me Miss, but we don't allow _____ in the restaurant.

Salma: Oh, sorry. I didn't know...Eduardo, I'll have to call you back...That's strange for me. In Lebanon we use phones everywhere. I mean, we try to talk _____ in a place like this, but...

Kenji: Same in Japan. This kind of rule is getting more popular, though.

Yolanda: I'm sorry, Salma.

Salma: No, no, it's OK. When in Rome, do as the _____ do

