

A day at grandma's

Put the story in order.

On Saturday we went to visit our grandparents for lunch.

1st

Grandma put on the leather jacket and boots, and I put on her glasses.

After getting all the objects from the boxes, we came downstairs.

We were so all bored that even grandad fell asleep in his armchair.

It was fantastic, even grandpa joined in.

After lunch it started to rain so we couldn't outside to work in the garden.

Finally, we were ready to put on our concert. Granny played the guitar and my brother and I sang along.

Then grandma had an idea. She asked us to go with Her to the attic.

There she told us to help her look for grandad's old guitar and boots because they were going to put on a rock concert.
