

Hogwarts School

Hogwarts School, from the Harry Potter books, is very unusual – it's only for magic students!

It's a very big school in Scotland. There are many rooms, and there's also a dark, scary forest and a lake in the school gardens.

The school has got bedrooms as well as classrooms and laboratories, because the students sleep at the school. Students have got classes from nine o'clock to five o'clock, but students haven't got lessons on Friday afternoons. Students eat breakfast, lunch and dinner at the school. Older students can visit a local village at the weekend, where there are shops and restaurants.

There aren't any computers, so students don't study ICT. Instead, the students have got lessons on the history of magic, and the science of magical plants, as well as ordinary subjects like maths and English. Students have got difficult exams every year. Studying magic isn't easy!
