

I've sprained my wrist.

I've burnt my hand.

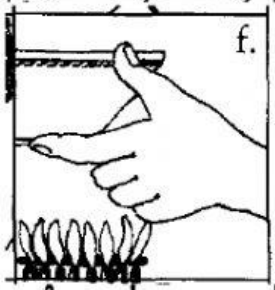

I've cut my thumb.

I got an electric shock.

I got stung by a bee.

I hit my head.

I've got a nosebleed.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

1. What happened to your hand? It' s very red.

I_____ it while I was cooking.

2. Why is you ankle in a bandage?

I_____it while I was having football.

3. Why is your arm in a cast?

I_____ and_____it while I was hiking.

4. What are you doing on the floor?

I_____ over on some spilled water.

5. Why is the blood on your coat? I _____ my hand this morning.

6. Your hand is all blue. I know. I _____ it doing karate.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Fill in the given words:

RED DIAPER CREAM HURT CRY FEEL PAIN PUNCH

How to Grow Up Painlessly

At school, she was once asked if she was Superman. Could she feel a _____ to the face? Could she walk across burning coals as if she were walking on grass? Would it _____ if she were stabbed in the arm? The answers are no, no, yes, no. She can _____ pressure and texture. She can feel a hug and a handshake. She felt her best friend, Katie, paint her toenails. "People don't get me!" she said one night while we played checkers on her iPod. "Everyone in my class asks me about it, and I say, 'I can feel pressure, but I can't feel _____.'I cannot feel it! I always have to explain that to them."

When she was born, she didn't _____. She barely made a noise, staring out from her swaddling with a blank _____ face. When she developed terrible _____ rash, so raw that it made Tara wince to even wash her, the pediatrician gave instructions to change her formula and put _____ on the rash and keep it dry. "I kept thinking, But she's not crying," Tara said. "The doctors dismissed it, but we're thinking, What's going on?"

LIVEWORKSHEETS