London Zoo

London Zoo is located in central London, on the north side of Regent's Park.
It houses (Ospita) more than seven hundred species of animals from all over the world. Many films and television programmes use London Zoo as a film set.
It has different areas. If you want to see lions and tigers, for example, you can go to the "Big Cats" area.
These big cats are predators but they also love to rest! They can sleep up to 20 hours a day.
In the "Into Africa" area people can visit some of the most amazing African animals: hippos, zebras, giraffes, elephants and warthogs.
"Animal adventure" is the part of the zoo where children have great fun. Lots of domestic animals, such as goats, donkeys and sheep, live here.
