

Q: Can you tell me something about UAE weddings in the past?

Use the drop-down box to choose the right answer

Sure! They were really _____ to how they are today. Firstly, they were not held in hotels, but rather in people's own homes, usually in large _____.

Everyone in the family and the neighbourhood would help to _____ for the wedding and the bride's mother would help the bride into her green wedding dress ... yes, green! You see, this was the traditional colour for a wedding dress, not white, like we have today.

Also, although there was no _____ in those days, people didn't get into _____ either, because fewer people were asked to the wedding and so it was less _____.

I think when I get married, I would like to have a simple _____ in a tent, maybe in my grandparent's garden. You know, I like to feel we can carry on with the UAE _____.
