So one day, the duckling saw his reflection in the water. After that, he ran away.

Winter came and the duckling was cold and sad. But a gentle man took him to his warm home and treated him very well.

Then, a man took him and treated him well. But his children and his wife treated the duckling badly.

A woman took him and fed him. But her cat and her hen treated him badly.

The duckling was now a beautiful swan and the other swans became his friends.

Finally, spring arrived, so the man took the duckling to a lake.

The duckling's brothers and sisters didn't want to play with him.

One day, a mum's eggs began to crack and hatch.
