

DEPENDANT PREPOSITIONS VOCABULARY

Dependent prepositions are the ones which belong to verbs, adjectives, or nouns. They don't form a new phrase, and they are often not translated into other languages or used differently in them.

So, now with the help of a dictionary, drag the correct preposition in the box to each of the sentences.

WITH

AT

TO

FOR

OF

TO

WITH

OF

1. The company was in chaos, and though the managing director was considered capable_____handling the crisis, he couldn't.
2. Mr. Richards wasn't familiar_____the computer program we were currently using, so he needed to be trained.
3. Moreover, being late to his online meetings was so typical_____him.
4. What he understood was that he would never be satisfied_____unless he learned to take responsibility once and for all.
5. The new managing director arrived. She is very efficient_____running the company.
6. They didn't think she was qualified enough_____the position, but that only made her more determined to prove them wrong.
7. It seems that Adele is absolutely loyal_____our organization and will never let us down.
8. In fact, we think she is superior_____the previous managers when it comes to responsibility and efficiency.