take on	turned down	got off	broke down set off	ended up	found out	come into set up	brought up	bumped into	sort out

When I _____ for work this morning, my car _____, so I _____ taking the bus. As soon as I _____, I _____ an old schoolmate, Mark. While we were talking, he _____ something I had already _____ from some mutual friends- that he had _____ some money and had _____ his own business. He told me that there was a lot to _____, and offered to _____me_____, but I _____him_____ straight away.

make up for	telling off	had a go at	pulled out of blown up	clocked in	get away with	turned out fallen through	went on	got over	let down

When I _____, my boss _____ me, _____me_____ in front of everyone. When I _____ the initial shock, I told her I'd _____ being late, but it _____ that she had _____ over a deal that had _____, after a client of mine had _____a contract. She told me that I wouldn't _____ it, that I'd _____everybody_____, and just _____ and on....

stormed out	put up with	worked out put through	ran out of	take up go ahead	lay off	answered back

Eventually, I _____ patience and _____- I said I was not going to _____ it anymore, and if she wanted to ____me____, she should _____. Anyway, to cut a long story short, I _____, phoned Mark's secretary, who _____me_____ to him. I told Mark I'd like to _____him_____ on his offer. So, in the end, everything has _____ perfectly!