

Life processes of animals

Match each life process of animals with the correct meaning.

Interaction

Animals take in essential nutrients and oxygen from the environment that provide them with energy and enable them to grow and develop.

Nutrition

Animals detect information and react to it in different ways. It is carried out using the locomotor and nervous system.

Reproduction

Animals can create new members of their own species. There are two types of this process: sexual and asexual.

