Is the most expensive the best?

Objective Compare objects using superlative adjectives.

Warm up

These are four of the most expensive cell phones in the world. Do you think it is wise to buy phones that are so expensive? Which one would you like to have?

Ulysse Nardin's The Chairman – up to $49,500

Nokia© 8800 Arte with pink diamonds $134,000

Peter Aloisson's iPhone© Princess Plus $176,400

Sony Ericsson© Black Diamond – $300,000

Grammar Focus Superlative Adjectives

We use Superlative Adjectives to compare one thing to many.
Add "the" + "est" to short (one or two syllables) adjectives. Two-syllable adjectives not ending in 'y' need "the most/least" to form the superlative.
Example: This phone is the smallest on the market.
Use "the most" before long (two or more syllables) adjectives.
Example: This phone is the most expensive in the store.
Example: My boyfriend is the most handsome guy at the party.

Remember

Use 'the' before 'most' or a superlative adjective when comparing one thing to many.
Example:
Her phone is the most expensive. His phone is the biggest.

Stuart Hughes iPhone© 4 Diamond Rose Edition – $8 million

Check out the latest iPhone© from Stuart Hughes – the iPhone 4 Diamond Rose Edition. Hughes has recreated the infamous antenna band that wraps around the sides of the latest iPhone©, as well as the backplate, using rose gold. The band is adorned with 100 carats of flawless diamonds, and the Apple© logo is formed with fifty-three more diamonds. Once again, the home button gets the most love–it's made of platinum and features a rare 7.4-carat pink diamond.

The phone comes in an imperial pink 7-kilogram chest cut from a single block of granite and is lined with nubuck top-grain leather. It also comes with an 8-carat flawless diamond that can be used in place of the pink one.

SAY IT!

Ask your classmates what devices they have with them at the moment or at home. If you happen to have the same device, compare them.

ON YOUR OWN

Look for sites on the Internet where technology devices are compared: computers, cell phones, microwave ovens, cars, etc. Write sentences comparing more than two devices. Share your work with your classmates.

YOU ARE A SUCCESS!
