

Logical connectors 1

Click on the little arrow and choose the most appropriate connector for each gap.

The importance of playing games _____ soccer or baseball is widely recognized. _____, sports are part of the curriculum for nearly every child going to school. This is _____ we can learn important lessons from games that are helpful to us later in life. _____, playing a sport teaches us how to function as part of a team. We learn to make compromises _____ cooperate, which are useful skills on the job. An employee who can be flexible about an opinion _____ work well with others is desirable when decisions need to be made _____ deadlines need to be met. _____, playing on a team teaches loyalty, which is important in all personal relationships. We can gain the trust of friends, who know we will always keep their confidences, _____ of our families, who know they will not be abandoned _____ neglected. _____, sport teaches us that _____ win a game, we need to work hard, _____ the same rule applies to the rest of life. Hard work improves our academic achievement _____ helps us to get and keep a good job. Certainly there are other ways to learn these important lessons _____ playing sports, and physical disabilities or personal preferences may make sports unappealing for some people, _____ for many of us, playing games is an enjoyable education.