Worksheet 1

2020 - 20201	Name:	Grade: 10
/ / 2020		Section:

Dear student:
You are kindly requested to study the learning box, and then to answer the questions within 30 minutes carefully.
Outcome: use the present real conditional correctly.

Present real conditional

The present real conditional is used to express true, factual ideas. The (if clause) indicates condition, and the result clause indicates the result or what happens if the condition is met.

Use the simple present in the (if clause) and the (result clause).
If you aren't sure about the result, you can use a modal, such as can, might, or must in the result clause.
Use a comma between the (if clause) and the (main clause) only if the sentence begins with the (if clause).

1. Choose your answer from the box and write the correct letter from (A-E) next to questions (1-4).

1. If you mix yellow and blue, _____.
2. If you heat water to 100 degrees Celsius, _____.
3. If you fall off your motorcycle, _____.
4. When you read books, _____.

A. it boils.
B. you learn things.
C. you get green.
D. it hurts.
E. you get red.

2. Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the verb.

1. If I _____ (go) to a friend's house for dinner, I usually _____ (take) a bottle of juice or some flowers.

2. If I_____ (have) a day off from work, I often _____ (go) to the beach.

3. If the weather _____ (be) nice, she _____ (walk) to work.

4. Joud _____ (help) me with my homework if he _____ (have)) time.

5. I _____ (read) a novel if there _____ (be) nothing on TV.

Worksheet 1

6. A: What do you do if it _____ (rain)?

   B: I _____ (stay) at home.

7. A: Where _____ (do) you stay if you go to Sydney?

   B: I _____ (stay) with my friends near the harbor.

3. Combine each pair of sentences using the present real conditional.

1. I think I can improve my grades. I do this extra project.

_____

2. You read the paper every day. You know more about current affairs.

_____

3. You may become a footballer. Practice football regularly.

_____