Elephants are <sup>1</sup>  (big) land mammals in the world. They've also got <sup>2</sup>  (large) brains in the animal kingdom, but that doesn't mean that they're <sup>3</sup>  (intelligent) animal of them all.

Adult male African elephants can be almost four metres tall and weigh about 6,990 kg.

Adult Indian elephants aren't <sup>4</sup>  (tall) or <sup>5</sup>  (heavy) as that. Their ears are <sup>6</sup>  (small) than those of African elephants too. One of <sup>7</sup>  (soft) parts on an elephant's skin is called the knuckle and it's behind the ears. The knuckle is <sup>8</sup>  (sensitive) than other parts and elephant trainers give commands by touching it.

Despite the size of elephants' ears, their hearing is <sup>9</sup>  (bad) than other animals. Their eyesight isn't <sup>10</sup>  (good) as other animals either because their eyes are very small.

Elephants are probably one of <sup>11</sup>  (hungry) animals in the world. They spend about 16 hours a day eating and they eat about 225 kg of food!

Female elephants are <sup>12</sup>  (sociable) than males and live in groups with their mothers, daughters, sisters and aunts.
