A surprising discovery

In 1790, when workers excavated to level the ground in the main square, they discovered an ¹⁾ stone. When they uncovered the stone completely, they saw that it had ²⁾ symbols. It was the Aztec Sun Stone, dedicated to the sun god. After its discovery, a ³⁾ historian convinced the viceroy to preserve it. So, the stone remained on an ⁴⁾ wall of the cathedral for almost 100 years. In 1964, the stone reached its ⁵⁾ destination where it is today, the Museo Nacional de Antropología.
