

There Is Song

The Beautiful South

vistas2.765

There's a bench in everydedicated to Those who sat there once but didn't make it through
There are carved deep in bark on every tree
By those who spent their time like you and me

And wherever geography may placenow
There's a piece ofall folk carry around
Whatever your situation, whatever it may allow There's an even larger piece inlost and found

There is song, there's..... a song
Wherever there's perfection there's a wrong
There's always..... but a broken bond
And an unknissed frog in every village

There's a that we graffiti'd up on a wall
To the folks who live there now, makes no sense at all
And in every underpass, on every

Asomeone made but couldn't keep
A tiny piece of chalk in every coat
In every film the smallest lump in throat
In every song you've sung in every novel read
That unknissed love will rear, rear its head

There is, there's always song
Wherever there's a right there's always wrong
There's always a song but a broken bond
And an unknissed frog in every village pond
