As a young boy, Dong-ju loved sports, and he was a soccer player for his school. [ ]

It was literature that he loved most. In elementary school he wrote a lot of poems. [ ]

In middle school he borrowed a poetry book by Baek Seok and copied the whole book by hand. [ ]

His parents wanted him to be a doctor, but Dong-ju chose to study literature at a college in Seoul. [ ]

To celebrate his graduation, he wished to publish 19 of his poems under the title, Heaven, Wind, Stars, and Poetry. [ ]

Dong-ju decided to study further in the country where his father had studied before. [ ]

On July 10 the following year, his cousin was arrested by the Japanese police for taking part in an independence movement. [ ]

In 1948, Jeong Byeong-uk brought Dong-ju's poems to the poet's brother, and they were finally published. [ ]

❶ So, in 1942, Dong-ju and his cousin began to study in Japan.

❷ He really wanted to have his own copy of the rare book.

❸ During his college years, he wrote poetry where he expressed feelings about his hometown and lost country.

❹ He also loved sewing so much that he sewed the numbers on all his friends' soccer uniforms.

❺ However, his professor advised against his plan.

❻ The book was given the title the poet had thought of many years before.

❼ He even made a literary magazine with his cousin, Song Mong-gyu.

❽ Four days later, Dong-ju was also arrested on the same charges.
