Put the sentences in the right order, depending on what happens when in the election:

1.

2.

3.

4.

The chosen candidate runs for president and spends millions of dollars to get elected.

One candidate from each party is chosen to run for president.

Candidates compete against other candidates from their own party.

Candidates declare their candidacy for wither the Democratic Part or the Republican Party.