Yesterday was a very bad day. (0) If ~~wasn't~~ ^{hadn't been} raining, perhaps it wouldn't have been so tiring. The problem is, I never drive to school (1) it's raining. But it was raining cats and dogs and I needed to get to an important class, so I took the car. It broke down on the way. (2) I had it serviced regularly, I know it won't be so unreliable, but garages charge so much these days that I don't bother.

I decided to call the breakdown company on my mobile phone. Well, I would have done that (3) my mobile hasn't run out of battery! Never mind, I thought, (4) I'll find a public phone, I'll be able to call from there (5) it's out of order! It was, so I can't! By this time, I was in a panic. What will my teacher say (6) didn't get to the class? (7) students don't arrive on time, he will get really angry with them. Luckily, a taxi pulled up. 'A la ENOI,' I shouted, 'and (8) you will do the journey in under ten minutes, I'll pay you double!' 'Forget it,' said the driver. 'The Puente de Guadalupe is gridlocked. You'd never get there in ten minutes (9) you went by helicopter.' So I ended up late for the class and the teacher was not happy.
