

Listening for Specific Information

When listening for specific information, keep in mind what you need to listen to. It is not necessary to listen to every single word, but to pay attention to small details such as numbers, names and dates. Practicing this will eventually help you understand faster and develop your ideas in the same way.

1. Watch the 2-minute video about George Floyd's murder. Then read the questions below. Watch the video once more and answer the questions appropriately.

- a. How many people were arrested in New York city? _____
- b. How old was George Floyd when he was handicapped by the police? _____
- c. Where was George Floyd born? _____
- d. Besides being a talented athlete, what did Floyd do? _____
- e. What types of recognition did Floyd's name get? _____