In Among Us there are 2 different roles: and

a) Search for “Among Us” in your Center and Click to Install. You’ll then find the Among Us icon on your home click on it to launch the game and start playing.

b) You’re one of 4 to 10 players on a ship. One of these is an Impostor whose main goal is to everyone else. The rest of the players are part of the regular crew who’s just trying to unharmed. To do this, they have to complete several tasks or (better yet) find the Impostor and vote them out. If they’re successful, the Crew = If the Impostor manages to kill them all, he or she wins. =

c) The free, Skeld, has 14 different that are connected by seven Everyone spawns in the Cafeteria . Crew members have to visit some or most of the other rooms to complete their While Impostors don’t have tasks as their specific objectives, they can “completing” certain activities as a way to gain everyone else’s trust. Every user has a chance to call an meeting or, upon seeing a body, to report it to everyone else.. = you can only SPEAK at these periods of time.

D) If you’re an Impostor, your main goal is to others that you didn’t do it, while the Crew has to spot you out. Since it’s a system where the person with the most votes gets eliminated from the game, it doesn’t really matter who does what. Instead, your argumentative powers are what makes a difference. To sway people in one direction or another, you have to be prepared to make your case as convincingly as possible. There is a short time-limit, so you either have to present very strong or come up with a believable narrative that will take others off your trail.

e) When you’re killed by the Impostor, you become a Although you can’t interact or discuss with others, you can help them complete tasks. They won’t be able to see you, though.

f) The best part about Among Us is that you can easily play the game with your friends. To do this, you can be a host and set a password for your lobby.
