There Will Come Soft Rains

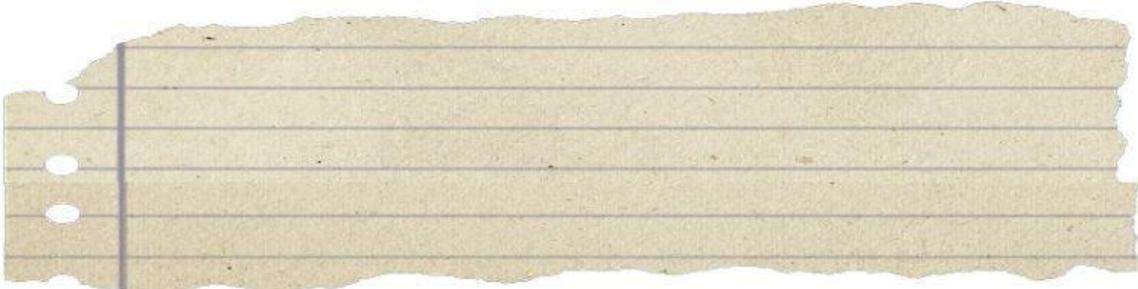

BY: RAY BRADBURY

I. READING COMPREHENSION

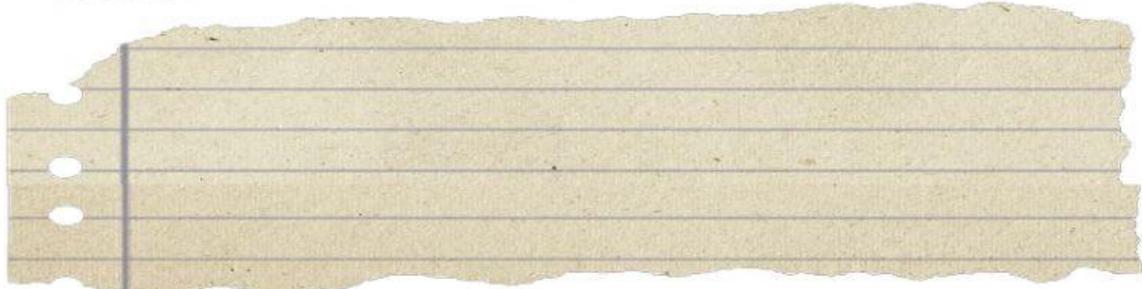

Where does the story of "There will be soft rains" take place? What is the date?

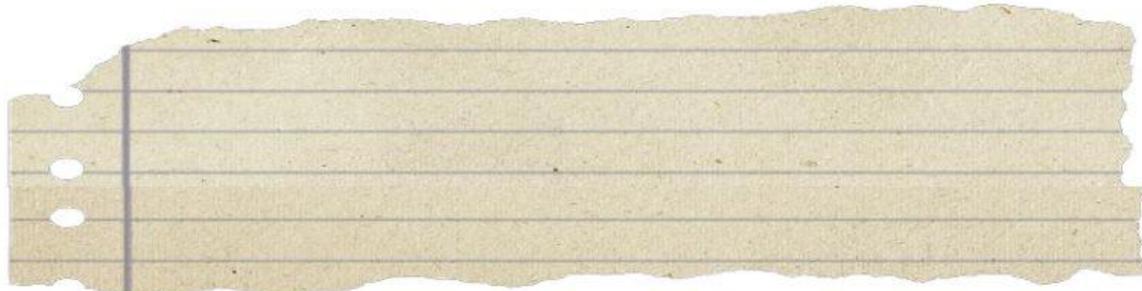

Who is in charge of doing the housework in the house in the story?

Is the house inhabited by people? Yes, or not? If the answer is no, why does the house continue doing the routine?

Why do you think the dog is in these conditions, if the house continues to comply with the household routine?

Why did the voice in the library choose the poem?

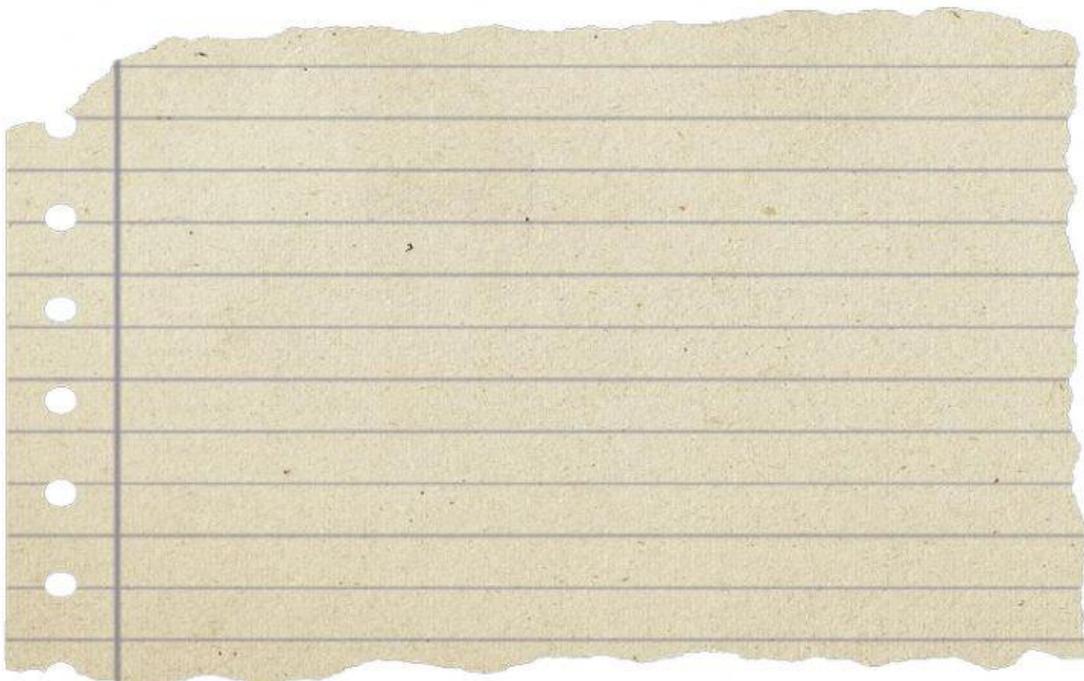

What time does the fire start in the house? What causes the fire?

II. LET'S USE THE NEW VOCABULARY

Choose 10 new words that you found in the text, write them in the boxes, find their meaning and write a short story with them.

The story must be 200 words or less. Use your imagination. I know you can do it!

III. CRITICAL THINKING

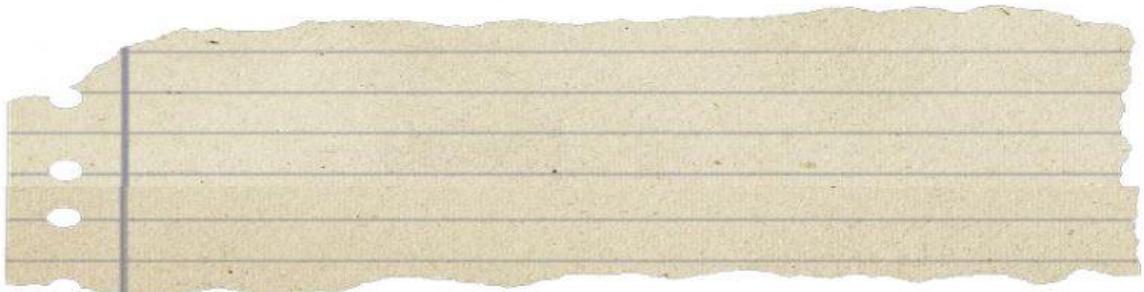

Why do you think Mrs. McClellan liked to listen to Sara Teasdale's poems?

Why do you think the story has the title "There Will Come Soft Rains"?

Did you like the story? How did you feel when reading?

Would you like to live in a time when technology takes center stage as in history? why?
