It was a crisp and cool morning. Uncle Sam was wide awake even before the sun did. Today, I was helping out in his farm as his farmhand. We had a lot to accomplish today. Uncle Sam has many animals on his farm. He has cows, horses, sheep and a loyal canine called Dodger. We first headed to the cow 1. _____ where his herd of cows are kept. Uncle Sam distracted the cows with a stack of hay while he milked them. After collecting the milk, we headed to the 2. _____ where his lovely brood of chickens are kept. We collected so many eggs that we could eat a thousand omelettes. Yum! Uncle Sam also has a flock of sheep. He collects wool from them to make the warmest blankets. The sheep are kept in a 3. _____ and they always go baa, baa, baa! The smelliest place in the farm is the pig 4. _____! It smells smellier than the smelliest socks in the world.

After tending to the pigs, Uncle Sam went to the 5. _____ where his prized horses are kept. My favourite is Mr. Black Beauty. His mane is as black as the night and he has a pretty white star between his eyes. I love feeding him hay. After making sure Mr. Black Beauty is full, Uncle Sam and I headed to the 6. _____ where his favourite canine, Dodger is kept. The moment Dodger saw us, his tail wagged faster than the blades of a helicopter. It wagged so fast I was sure he would take off to the sky. After feeding him a large portion of dog food, Uncle Sam had a visitor. It was the beekeeper Mr. Orwell. He was covered from head to toe in protective gear. Uncle Sam keeps his bees in 7. _____. Mr. Orwell is an expert at collecting honey without getting stung. I was excited to collect a jar full of honey so I can spread it on slices of bread and eat it. Yum! After a long tiring day's of work, Uncle Sam and I kicked back and relaxed with slices of bread covered in honey. It was truly a wonderful day at the farm.
