

Pocahontas

In 1697 a group of Englishmen travelled to North America and established a colony in the native's territory. The natives didn't like this invasion of their territory and became their enemies. Life was very difficult for the colonists, but Pocahontas, a young native princess, was in favour of peace and did a lot to help the colonists and stop the conflicts. The story says that she was in love with one of the Englishmen, John Smith. Disney made a romantic film of the story.
