MAY, MIGHT, COULD FOR POSSIBILITY

May, might and could are used to say that something is possible now or in the future.

MAY = +++

MIGHT = ++

COULD = +

READ THE INFORMATION IN THE CHARTS AND MATCH THEM WITH THE CORRECT REASON.

I am afraid of dogs because…

I don't like spiders because…

Paola never goes swimming because…

I don't like flying on planes because…

I worry about going to the doctor because…

She may drown.

They could fall or crash.

He might tell me that I have a terrible illness.

They may bite me.

some of them could jump on me.

COMPLETE THE SENTENCES SO THEY HAVE SIMILAR MEANINGS

1. I don't know if the science fiction movie is out this week. (could)
   The science fiction movie __*could be*__ out this week.
2. It's uncertain if his flight will depart tonight. (might)
   His flight _____ tonight.
3. I think she is at work. (may)
   She _____ at work. (may)
4. I don't know if I will go to see a movie tonight. It depends on my boss.(might)
   I _____ a movie tonight.
5. Some people think that Elvis Presley is alive. Someone would have seen him by now.(could)
   Elvis Presley _____ alive.
6. Maybe my mother will arrive from England tomorrow. (may)
   My mother _____ from England tomorrow.
7. Perhaps Alejandra will buy new clothes if she goes to the mall.(might)
   Alejandra _____ some new clothes if she goes to the mall.
8. I'm not sure if Jorge will enjoy traveling to the jungle.(could)
   Jorge _____ traveling to the jungle.
9. Perhaps my favorite singer will visit my city one day.(may)
   My favorite singer _____ my city one day.