

Republican ideology is based on conservatism.

Conservatism is about tradition and social stability.

Republicans want low taxes, less power to the government and a strong military.

All Republicans want huge government influence.

Different types of Republicans focus on different issues, like protecting traditional family values and individual freedom.