It was Saturday yesterday and the weather was very bad. It was cold and windy and there was a lot of snow. Daisy and Peter were at home all day but there was some good music on the radio.

It was “Marching Song” by a composer called Prokofiev. In this piece of music a group of children are walking in the snow. Then they start playing. They make snowballs and throw them at their friends.

The weather's better today. It's cold, but sunny. The children can play in the garden. Daisy's wearing a hat and coat and Peter's wearing a big sweater and his favourite scarf.

There's a lot of snow on the ground and Peter and Daisy are making a snowman. Peter's making a smaller ball for its head.

The snowman's wearing a hat on its head and a long scarf round its neck. It's got two small rocks for its eyes, five small rocks for its mouth and a carrot for its nose. It's called “Prokofiev”.
