A. A full 12% of people dream exclusively in black and white. The rest of people dream in full colour. Studies from 1915 through to the 1950s claimed that the majority of dreams were in black and white, but these results began to change in the 1960s. Today only 4.4% of the dreams are in black and white. Recent research has suggested that those changing results may be linked to the switch from black-and-white film and TV to colour media.

B. All animals must rest, but do they really sleep? The answer to this question seems obvious. If an animal regularly stops its activities and stays quiet and unmoving, if it looks as though it is sleeping — then why not simply assume that it is in fact sleeping? But how can observers be sure that an animal is sleeping? Can they always watch the animal and notice whether its eyes are open or closed, whether it is active or lying quietly, and whether it reacts to light or sound?

C. This may sound cliched, but it is absolutely true: never give up on your dreams. Successful people that achieve what they want understand the power of dreams. A dream is a vision of what you want, of where you want to be. All great achievements start with a dream. When it will come true is unknown. There are no guarantees that your dream will come true at all. But certainly there are ways of making your dreams come true.

D. Television has become an everyday part of our lives. It keeps us informed about what is happening in the world. On the one hand, it is a wonderful way to relax and switch off from our problems. We can find soap operas, chat shows, be entertained or we can watch documentaries and learn something. Television is a wonderful invention. It is a cheap form of entertainment; it gives pleasure to millions of people. On the other hand, people become TV addicts. Many of us become couch potatoes, which is unhealthy. It makes us lazier.

E. Goodbye, pencils! Farewell, sheets of paper! These days cartoons are being made with a computer. The first-ever cartoon to be created by computer was "Toy Story" produced by Steve Jobs. A typical Walt Disney cartoon usually needs up to 600 designers. "Toy Story" was made using only 100. So, like so much of modern life, today's cinema seems to be falling more and more into the hands of the computer.

F. Can you tell us what women wear? It depends on the season of the year. Usually it is a skirt and a blouse or a dress. If it is cold, they wear a coat. A pair of gloves and a hat is necessary in this case, to say nothing of shoes. Can you tell us what men wear? They usually wear a shirt and trousers, a coat or a jacket, socks and shoes. If it is cold, they put on a coat, a cap or a hat and a pair of gloves. If it rains, men and women wear a raincoat. In autumn when it is raining hard an umbrella is necessary.

The Legend about Pygmalion

Pygmalion was a young sculptor from Cyprus. He didn't like women and thought they were wicked and stupid, but he loved making statues of them. He had been trying to create the perfect woman, who could not exist in real life. There was one statue that he worked on for so long and with such inspiration that it became more beautiful than any woman that had ever lived or been carved in stone. As he worked on the statue's features, they became exquisitely lovely, and he found himself carving with increasing affection. When he finally finished the statue, there stood such a perfect woman that Pygmalion fell deeply in love.

His statue didn't seem to be made of stone, but of flesh. In desperate anger he kissed the cold marble girl. It was ironic that this man, who had hated women, should fall in love with a woman who could never love him in return! He tried to pretend that she was real and dressed her in fine clothes, and brought her flowers and gifts, but he was terribly unhappy.

The goddess of love, Aphrodite, felt sorry for the young man and, when he went to her temple, she gave him a sign, and Pygmalion went home, wondering what the sign meant. When he entered his studio and saw Galatea, he ran to his statue and embraced it. Did she seem warm to his touch or was it just the heat from the sun that had warmed the stone? He stood back and looked at her. He watched in amazement as Galatea began to move. She turned towards him and smiled, and, as soon as she saw him, she stepped off her pedestal into his arms. The goddess Aphrodite herself attended their wedding.
