

Select the idiom that best describes each conversation.

Have a sharp tongue

Talk behind someone's back

Have a way with words

Talk someone into something

Stick to the point

Talk someone's ear off

Talk around a point

Love to hear oneself talk

Can you believe that? And then she goes and says it was my fault, so I...

I just asked how was your day...

Wow...I mean, it's nice and all but, couldn't you have tried something bigger? I guess that's all you can afford, huh?

And that's all that happened, should I tell his wife or...

Adam, please. At least let me finish my coffee.

I mean, I WAS a bit drunk and we had just had a fight so... but I was actually trying to call her but she wasn't...

Just say it!
Yes or no!?

Apparently, Sarah and Luis broke up yesterday, she was crying all day, that's why she didn't come to class.

Oh gosh! For real?

What dude? Scared?
Come on, don't be a chicken! Let's go! Your girlfriend will never know.

I know the situation is difficult, but please, don't lose hope. I promise that I will make sure our rights are respected.

Anyway, that happened, but I digress. What's important here is to tell you that things have been going just peachy.