Read the following passage and choose the letter A, B, C, or D to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

For many Americans, a parent's most important task is to teach their children live independently. From an early age, most children get their own rooms and never sleep with their parents.

American parents help their kids to become self-reliant by making them do things such as washing, cleaning, and cooking for themselves from the time they are very small. To help to develop their children's confidence, American parents always show respect for them and let them voice their opinions on family issues.

Many Vietnamese parents think their most important role is to protect their children and provide them with a happy and wealthy childhood. Babies often sleep with their parents, and many children do not get to sleep in their own beds until they finish primary school.

While many children in rural areas have to work to contribute to the household expenses, most children in urban areas do not have to do anything but study. In both urban and rural areas, parents seldom ask for their children's opinions before making family choices.

Children do not move out of the family home before they get married. Even then, many parents still want the couple to live with them in the same house.

6. According to many Americans, what is the most important task of parents?

- A. To teach their children to live independently.
- B. To protect their children.
- C. To provide their children with a happy and wealthy childhood.
