Learning languages

Choose the correct options.

Learning languages ☐ never been more important ☐ nowadays. Hungarians can now travel wherever they want to, and how ☐ they want to see ☐ the world is a question of money ☐ willingness. When you are in ☐ country, it is useful to speak ☐ language. It is, of course, impossible to know all the languages ☐ in the world, and this is where English comes in handy. English has ☐ an ☐ language, which means that it is widely used even in countries where it's not the native language. In most countries in Europe, English is ☐ at school from an early age so most people can communicate in it. ☐ if you speak English, you have a fair chance of ☐ wherever you are.

Fill in each gap with one word.

If you speak languages, ☐ have access to more information ☐ people who speak only their ☐ tongue. You can use websites where you can shop, play games and get and keep in ☐ with people from all ☐ the world. When you are using the Internet, English is very helpful as the language of a lot ☐ websites is English. The Internet can also help you learn and practise a language. These days you don't have to ask native speakers ☐ a particular word ☐ expression exists in a language – you simply google ☐ and the answer appears ☐ your screen.

Choose the most appropriate word for each gap.

| another | gain | suggested |
| brain | hard | take up |
| case | mentally | takes |
| effort | proficient | understand |

Learning language also exercises the ☐ and it is often ☐ that retired people should ☐ languages to keep themselves ☐ fit. Speaking languages also helps you ☐ that different people think differently and what works in your mother tongue may not be possible in ☐ language. Learning a language ☐ time and learners have to work ☐ if they want to become ☐ users. As in everything, no pain, no ☐ – but in the ☐ of languages it's well worth the ☐!