

Who does what? Choose from the drop down menu.

They: break records, play for a team, become champions. _____

They: create work, hold exhibitions, express ideas. _____

They: suggest theories, discover things, work on theories. _____

They: win elections, introduce reform, hold office. _____

Collocations: drag and drop.

1	hold		theories
2	suggest		champions
3	win		exhibitions
4	hold		reform
5	become		office
6	express		prizes
7	win		things
8	introduce		ideas
9	discover		work
10	create		medals

Choose words from the drop down menus.

 A portrait of Boris Johnson, a man with white hair, wearing a blue jacket over a checkered shirt.	Johnson _____ office in the UK. He _____ the leadership battle against Jeremy Hunt in 2019. He is famous due to his _____ on Europe and his crazy hair.
 A man in a dark suit crouching in front of a large glass display case containing a shark.	Hirst is an artist. He is best _____ for his animals in formaldehyde. He _____ controversial work. As a result, he is famous.
 A male athlete in a white and red Great Britain singlet, celebrating with his arms raised.	Farrah is the most successful British athlete in recent years. He has _____ gold medals in two events. He is very well _____ because of the mobot.
 A painting of Isaac Newton sitting at a desk, holding a telescope, with a book and a globe nearby.	Newton was a British scientist. He _____ gravity and worked on laws of motion. His work _____ influential so he is very important.
 A painting of Ada Lovelace sitting at a desk with a laptop, wearing a dark dress and a headscarf.	Lovelace wrote alogrithms for it. _____, some people say she was the first programmer.

	Adams is popular _____ she won gold medals in 2012 and 2016. _____ she is a double Olympic champion.
	Whiteread changed the way we look at space _____ she sculpted the inside of buildings.

Match the people with what they did.

Merkel	discovered radium
Frida Kahlo	won medals for the javelin
Masaryk	held office as the first president of Czechoslovakia.
Picasso	discovered the theory of relativity.
Marie Curie	introduced healthcare reform and immigration policy.
Einstein	painted many self-portraits.
Spotáková	won medals, cups and championships.
Jágr	painted and sculpted cubist works of art.