Star is trying to write her autobiography, but she needs your help. CLICK on the correct answer & prepare to tell her WHY.

Once upon a time there was a   little – small   girl named Star. She was   so – very – really   fun – funny   that she ever – always   made her friends laugh. Even so, she wasn't satisfied,   already – still – yet. She   heard – listened to   the advice of   much – many   people.   Every – All   single thing they said helped her. Some   said – told   her to   come – go on a long   trip – journey – voyage – travel   through the nearby exotic and mysterious blue   dessert – desert   where she might find some answers to her big questions. Others   did – made   plans for her to   put on – wear   a sparkly magic ring during her time there that would   remind – remember   her to go   house – home,   after she was satisfied. Others wanted her to decide what   history – story   she could   speak – talk   about when she   came – went   back, or what her favorite   job – work   would be when she   raised – grew – grew up.   Among – Between   the numerous pieces of good – well   advice she was thinking   of – about,   however, there were   fewer – less   interesting ideas   than – then her   receipts – recipes   for different kinds of yummy   cookie – cookies   to watch – look at   baking while deciding what to do. Oh, no! She was   quite – quiet – quit   for a moment, then she thought,   "This night – Tonight,   I would decide – would like to decide!   Like – As   the happy girl next door did, I could ask the cute   sun – son   of the bookstore owner to take – bring – carry – get   me a big book about India   at – in   his father's store, and   take – bring – carry – get   it to me before I get sleepy. It will have   a lot of – much   ideas. When he finally arrived, he blurted out, "Sorry,   I'm late – for the delay!   I needed to lock the store up,   too – to – two."   It was OK, though, because she   already – still – yet   wasn't sleepy. She thought, "Reading about India will be   fun – funny,   and it will   make – get   me happy."