TIME TO LEAVE

It wasn't the best day of Jenny's life. In fact, it was one of the worst. She loved her school.

(1)_____. Her teacher was fantastic and she'd known everyone in her class since she was twelve. She also loved her house and the neighbourhood. She looked round her room. It was decorated just as she liked it and she had a beautiful view out over the big garden and of the trees beyond.

(2)_____ Then she shut the front door behind her for the last time and got into the car.

'I still don't understand why we have to move,' she complained to her mother as they drove off.

'I've explained again and again,' her mother said. Her voice was sharp. She kept her eyes on the road ahead. 'Your father's got a new job in the city. It's more money and we've got a really spacious flat - you'll love it. Your room's got an en suite bathroom. So, no more sharing it with Mark.'

Jenny sulked and didn't answer.

(3)_____ There was the block of flats where her best friend, Ruby, lived. There was the big mansion where the rich kid in her class lived. And there was the tiny cottage where her boyfriend, Frank, lived with his mum. She was going to miss him. She felt tears in her eyes.
