

Election Day – Norman Rockwell, 1944

This document is...

a photograph

a painting

a drawing

It represents a presidential election because I can see an American flag and a voting booth in the background.

There are 11 people : 7 voters and 4 supervisors.

On the left, I can see a line of people waiting : there are two women who are chatting and a man who is holding a newspaper. He looks confused and hesitant because he doesn't know who he is going to vote for.

In the middle, two women are signing a register and the supervisors are checking their signature.

On the right, a woman is leaving and a supervisor is opening and closing the curtain of the voting booth.

There is a cat on in under the desk.

Norman Rockwell is famous for his realistic

crazy

abstract

illustrations

