Write in True or False

Client-Server Networks need a network manager

It is more difficult to share resources on a network

If the server goes down, you can still access the network

The server can get busy and slow down

You can log in from anywhere on the network