

English Intonation

Determine the kind of English Intonation we are using.

Listen to the audios and write the type of intonation they represent. Take your time. Repeat the audio if you need to. When you're done, submit your answers.

As studied, your options are: statement / command / yes/no question / wh question / clarification / tag question with certainty / surprise / tag question with uncertainty / or (only one option available) / or (all options available) / list / incomplete sentence / old information vs new information / emphasis

You may copy and paste your options for parallelism since the answers have to match the same format of the options above.

- a. Jan hasn't arrived, has she?
- b. They bought carpets, sofas, lamps, and picture frames.
- c. Is it violet, purple, or blue?
- d. Life isn't easy.
- e. Where have you been?
- f. The country club I attend will close next month.
- g. Can I call Kye and Quinn?
- h. You may order artisan food, fast food, or veggie food.
- i. It doesn't work like that, does it?
- j. All the items were sold already!?
- k. Just stop complaining about it.
- l. Bianca, my sister, is trying to be more active.
- m. I said you can go now.
- n. Did you bring this?