WHAT CAN YOU PREDICT AFTER READING THE TEXT?

Very soon, the bus was completely full. Then a white man got on.

He didn't want to stand up, he wanted to sit down, so the bus driver told the four people in the fifth row to get up.

Three people got up, but Rosa Parks didn't get up. She said no.

Some people said later that Rosa didn't get up because she was tired after her day's work and because she was old. It's true she was tired, but that wasn't the reason. She wasn't physically tired, but she was tired of stupid rules, so she said no – and she didn't get up.
