

"Once upon a time, a long time ago, there were three bears who lived in a small house in the deep woods. There was Papa Bear, who was big and strong. There was Mama Bear, who was a very good cook. The third bear was Baby Bear, who was always hungry and sleepy. One day Mother Bear cooked some porridge. Papa Bear said, "The porridge is too hot; let's go for a walk while it cools." So the family of bears went for a walk in the deep woods. While they were gone, a little girl named Goldie Locks came up to the bears' house and opened the door and went right into the house. She tasted Papa Bear's porridge, but it was too hot. She tasted Mother Bear's porridge, but it was too cold. She tasted Baby Bear's porridge and it was just right, so she ate it all. Then Goldie Locks went up the stairs and jumped on Papa Bear's bed. It was too hard. She jumped on Mother Bear's bed, but it was too soft. She jumped on Baby Bear's bed and it was just right so she went to sleep. About this time, the three bears came home. Papa Bear said, "Who has been eating my porridge?" Mother Bear said, "Who has been eating my porridge?" Baby bear said, "Someone ate my porridge, every last bite of it." The three bears went up the stairs. Papa Bear said, "Who has been jumping on my bed?" Mother Bear said, "Who has been jumping on my bed?" Baby Bear said, "Someone jumped on my bed and is still in my bed." Then Goldie Locks woke up, jumped out the window, and ran all the way home. "
