Seeing is believing ...?

Have you ever wondered why it is that some things always look so good in (16) _____(ADVERTISE) ? And, somehow, much better than they do in (17) _____(REAL) ? Why does that burger look so much better in the picture than the actual one I've just bought? Well, prepare yourself for some _____ (18) (SURPRISE) facts! Marketing photographers and stylists have a number of tricks to improve the _____(19) (APPEAR) of products, food in particular. Did you know that the breakfast cereal in the photo on the box looks nice and crispy because it's more than likely not actually in milk but glue, and those _____(20) (SHINE) red tomatoes have been covered in hairspray? It's delicious, cool ice cream, isn't it? No, it's really mashed potato! But isn't all this deception misleading for consumers? And could marketers be accused of being _____(21) (HONEST) and even of lying?

Well, there's no law against it and the practice is likely to continue, so, just don't necessarily believe what you see
