Etiquette guide for business people

When people greet each other in the USA it is to address them by their title and surname and ask them how they are. If it is someone you are meeting for the first time then you should their and say “ to meet you”. If you go out for, say, a then generally you can eat as much as you like. However, if you are into someone’s home for a meal you should try and leave your empty. are not expected but a small gift, like some flowers, would be appreciated.
