

Listen to Ludia talking her experience with dresscodes in her school in the USA:

Fill in the text with the missing words:

In the I went to a school so we didn't have but we did have a And what a dress code is, is basically a set of about what you can or can't at school. So for example you couldn't wear or that were too, you couldn't wear that were cut too or that didn't cover your You couldn't wear too much of a single, like or because of related colours. You often were not allowed to wear when you were in a So basically anything that was considered to be for the school you were not allowed to wear. And if you did come to school wearing that, you were often sent to the and then you would have your parents called or you would be sent to put something else on.

Personally I think it would have been nice to wear a because then it's not about, you know, who has the nicest or the most things, it's just about And you can come to school wearing a every day and not have to about wearing, you know, the most items.
