

Parts of a Story

A story can roughly be divided into the following parts:

- Title: The title should either summarise the whole story (without spoilers!) or have something to do with the main theme.
- Exposition: This is the beginning of the story, where the characters and setting are established. It serves as the introduction to the next part, the action, and the so-called conflict of our story.
- Action: In this part, the characters deal with conflict and do things to solve it.
- Resolution: This is where the conflict is resolved and the story concludes with an ending, normally without any loose ends.
