

The Real McCoy

Complete with one word:

Gordon, Heather, Duncan and Fiona were at a hotel in for the weekend. They were in the living room and there a painting of a man called Lord McCoy. Fiona told them that McCoy in his bedroom and his ghost walked there at Gordon didn't in ghosts and his friends challenged him to in Lord McCoy's bedroom. Duncan wanted to Gordon, he was going to be the ghost. Later Gordon fell asleep and he a nightmare. Lord McCoy wanted to kill him with his in the dream. Suddenly, he heard a noise and the door was He felt something on his feet, he felt and he ran away. Then he Duncan and he thought Duncan was the ghost but Duncan said he wasn't. When they to the living room they looked at the painting and, to their surprise, the sword was the picture and Lord McCoy was at them.

True or false:

The castle was a hotel.

Gordon believed in ghosts.

Duncan, Heather and Fiona wanted to scare Gordon.

At the beginning of the story the sword was under the picture.

Gordon had two nightmares that night.

Gordon imagined everything because he was afraid.

They all believed in McCoy's ghost at the end of the story.

At the end of the story the sword was in Lord McCoy's bedroom.